FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Michael Nosbisch joins Project Time & Cost, Inc. as Managing Principal, Western Region

(Atlanta, GA, May 17, 2011)

Project Time & Cost, Inc. (PT&C) is pleased to announce that Michael (Mike) Nosbisch has joined the company as Managing Principal of our newly designated Western Region. Positioned in Long Beach, California, he will be responsible for sales generation across the entire western portion of the United States, reporting to Andy Reape, Executive Vice President of Client Relations. Mike will also be charged with expanding PT&C's already impressive offerings related to earned value management (EVM), intent on providing focused consulting support to government contractors.

Mike was formerly Vice President of Earned Value Management for SM&A, a leading management consulting firm headquartered in Newport Beach, CA. In that capacity, he was responsible for managing SM&A's EVM Compliance & Consulting practice, which supported several large government contractors both within the aerospace and defense (A&D) and engineering, procurement and construction (EPC) industries. In fact, many of the EPC contractors with whom he consulted are currently working on major projects for the Department of Energy, historically one of PT&C's most valued customers.

Mike possesses more than 22 years of overall experience in the areas of project management, project controls and contract administration. He has worked for some of the largest EPC contractors in the country, including URS Corporation, Jacobs Engineering and Kiewit. Mike's last assignment with a major EPC contractor before becoming a consultant was with Parsons Corporation, where he managed the project controls department for their government business unit. As a result, he was functionally responsible for providing estimating, scheduling, cost engineering, and EVM support to complex projects in Iraq, Russia and Indonesia, as well as throughout the United States.

Mike is a nationally known presenter and trainer, focusing on topics that encompass not just EVM but the entire spectrum of project controls. He is currently the President-Elect for ACE International, the recognized association for project controls professionals worldwide. Mike is also an active member of the Society of American Military Engineers (SAME), the National Defense Industrial Association (NDIA) and the Energy Facility Contractors Group (EFCOG). Mike currently holds both the Certified Cost Consultant (CCC) and Planning and Scheduling Professional (PSP) certifications, and in the past held a Project Management Professional (PMP) certification (now inactive).
